General instructions

Purpose of this form

Use Form OR-243 to claim a tax refund on behalf of a deceased taxpayer.

Who should use this form?

An heir of a deceased taxpayer must file Form OR-243 to claim a refund when there is no trustee or court appointed representative.

If the court has appointed a personal representative, or a small-estate affidavit has been filed, Form OR-243 isn't required.

If you are a trustee of a revocable inter vivos trust (usually called a living trust), you should be able to cash a refund check issued in the name of the decedent. If you are unable to cash the check, return the check with the completed Form OR-243 and a copy of the death certificate if at least six months have passed since the decedent died.

What you need to know

For nonprobated or closed estates

If you have received a check in the decedent's name and are unable to cash it, return the check and the completed Form

OR-243 with a copy of the death certificate attached. The refund check may be reissued in the name of the claimant as indicated on Form OR-243.

For probated estates

If the personal representative files this form to claim the deceased person's refund for the estate, attach a copy of the court appointment or a copy of the affidavit. The refund check will be issued in the deceased person's name, in care of the personal representative.

To avoid refund delays, remember to

- Answer each question on Form OR-243.
- Attach a copy of the death certificate.
- Attach a copy of the court appointment, if any.
- Have claimant sign the form.
